

US Lobbying Firm is Accused of Accepting Bribes from Azeri Government to Discredit Opposition

A US lobbying firm Worldwide Strategic Partners is accused of accepting bribes for setting up meetings between high-level U.S. officials and foreign leaders, including the president of Azerbaijan and other members of Azerbaijan's government.

Below is the excerpt from a brochure where the firm describes its work on behalf of Azeri government, including "an aggressive media campaign to discredit the Azeri opposition candidates, allowing the government for freedom in enforcing election curfews and laws".

A US lobbying firm Worldwide Strategic Partners is accused of accepting bribes for setting up meetings between high-level U.S. officials and foreign leaders, including the president of Azerbaijan and other members of Azerbaijan's government.

Below is the excerpt from a brochure where the firm describes its work on behalf of Azeri government, including "an aggressive media campaign to discredit the Azeri opposition candidates, allowing the government for freedom in enforcing election curfews and laws".

Read the full story in Sunday Times of London